

Web Developer Software Engineer, Junior, Mid-level, Senior

Location: Charlottesville, Virginia

PunchOut2Go is a B2B integration solutions provider focused on electronic procurement. We provide a hosted gateway service for the Procurement industry with e-commerce storefront integrations and development allowing suppliers to sell to their buyers electronically via procurement channels.

Candidate will work from our offices in Charlottesville, VA 22901.

The current Junior position desires some Web Development and/or PHP experience, core language C++, C#, or Other
The current Mid-level and Senior positions require strong PHP development experience, core language C++, C#, or Other

Job Responsibilities

- Support client integrations and assist in unit testing.
- Contribute to gateway and storefront plug-in development.
- Application development and improvement of product based on client needs.
- Develop application roadmap requirements
- Improve and develop core application and services
- Support client integrations team with features and improvements
- Support management team with development needs

Work environment

- This role will work under a Lead Developer and work with other team members.
- Some client interaction will be required after successful product training
- An ability to work independently and in a team setting is a must.
- Depending on the candidate's experience and adaptability additional opportunities may be provided.

Why work here?

- Experience all aspects of working in an application and development service provider.
- Work on different client initiatives, helping each one meet their goals.
- Focus on an internal application, making it better, easier and more powerful.
- See the difference your contribution makes to your company and clients.
- Work closely with positive, like minded and dedicated team members.

Desired Experience:

- Overall PHP strength and ability to rapidly learn new frameworks is important
- Object Oriented PHP
- Model/View/Controller Frameworks
- Zend Framework
- JSON, JavaScript, AJAX
- Unit Testing and Release Management
- Web application development
- Knowledge of Magento, WordPress, Shopify or other ecommerce platforms

Big Plus: Interface development (HTML/CSS3), Procurement Industry Experience, XML, cXML, EDI Experience Database Architecture Experience Server Management. While not part of the responsibilities in this job description, experience with additional aspects of the LAMP stack and application hosting are considered. Strong project management and performance measurement skills

- Attention to detail, sense of urgency, ability to meet deadlines, excellent organizational skills and a proactive personality are required for success
- Exceptional written and verbal communication skills
- Able to compile and analyze performance data to develop metrics that support decision making for resource allocation and subsequent campaigns
- Solid business acumen, management and problem solving skills
- Effective time management, organization and leadership skills

Salary: Competitive, Based on Experience.

Submit your resume to reuben@punchout2go.com or call 757-708-6411